This consultation service is intended to provide information, advice and guidance regarding feline and canine oncological issues. The information provided by the consultants is an educational service only. Regarding individual patients, the consultation service does not replace the primary care veterinarian's independent judgment regarding the appropriateness of a diagnosis and the risks and benefits of a procedure or treatment. All health care decisions are the responsibility of the primary care veterinarian. The Ontario Veterinary College Teaching Hospital, Department of Clinical Studies and individual consultants are not responsible or liable for any course of treatment, diagnosis, service or products instituted or recommended by the primary care veterinarian.
